Community Resources Staff - Virtual Programming

As the pandemic left the Lakewood community without many of the traditional activities residents enjoy, staff from the Community Resources Department were proactive in transitioning in-person activities to virtual programming to serve the needs of Lakewood residents. Staff provided online weekly exercise and art classes, therapeutic recreation opportunities and created virtual community events. Staff took unique approaches to their newsletters, publications and webpages to communicate their new virtual class format and frequent program updates. This creative and rapid innovation from divisions across the Community Resources Department provided the Lakewood community with important public health services while fostering community connection, resilience and social sustainability during this challenging time.
